

Wing Commander Phil Skorge is the British Army capability development lead for countering small Unmanned Air Systems, working to a broader programme to regenerate UK Ground Based Air Defence. Specifically, he is focussed on the delivery of mobile and man-portable solutions to support land manoeuvre. An RAF Regiment officer, Phil is a Force Protection specialist with a varied background including Air Defence, Air-Land Integration and training delivery. He is based at British Army Headquarters in Wiltshire.