

Dr. Scott Crino

Founder and CEO

Red Six Solutions, USA

Red Six Solutions is a strategic advisory consulting firm with clients throughout the U.S. Department of Defense, U.S. Department of Homeland Security, international defense organizations and private companies. Dr Crino founded Red Six in 2012 following a 21-year career in the U.S. Army where he served as a commissioned officer in the aviation branch, achieving the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Dr. Crino spent much of his military career as an attack helicopter pilot rated in the UH-1 Huey, OH-58 Kiowa, AH-1 Cobra Gunship and AH-64 Apache. He maintains both a commercial helicopter and small unmanned aerial systems (sUAS) licenses. Dr Crino also served as an Operations Research Analyst supporting advanced concepts in military simulation and as an assistant professor at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Scott holds a PhD in Systems Engineering from the University of Virginia and is the recipient of several commendations for outstanding performance during his military service. Recently he has published several articles on the mitigation of global UAS threats with co-author and co-founder of Red Six, Conrad “Andy” Dreby.
