

My name is Siim Lindmaa and I work for Estonian Police and Border Guard Board. My work is related to development and implementation of unmanned aircraft systems into law enforcement activities. I am a subject matter expert who believes in possibilities to enhance our situational awareness and decision-making processes through the usage of unmanned aircraft systems. My professional background in the field starts with the position of planning and using the tactical unmanned aircraft systems for the support of military grade operations. I have acquired knowledge of design and development of systems while working as the product manager in defense industry. I like to think of myself as innovation driven person who makes decisions with future in mind.
